What is the Arms and Militaria Collectors' Association of New South Wales?

The Arms and Militaria Collectors' Association of New South Wales was formed in 1975 as a non-profit organisation to encourage the study of Military and Sporting Arms of all types, and accessories and associated items related to the history of arms.

The society places particular emphasis on encouraging the preservation and display of arms and associated items having cultural or historical significance to Australia, however, the Association and its members actively pursue the collection of Arms and Militaria of all types and origins, as permitted by law.

Other functions and purposes of the Association are to actively pursue bulk purchases of items that would be of interest to the members and to make representations on behalf of Collectors of Arms, to elected representatives, governments and other representatives and the media to safeguard the interests of the members, to promote the bona-fides of Collecting Arms, and to educate the general public and persons or groups interested of the historical significance of arms, accessories and associated items.

The Association holds NSW Police Approvals as a Firearm & Prohibited Weapon collecting club and participation in club meetings satisfies the attendance requirements for licensed collectors.
